

Abstract

A lighting device having a plurality of LEDs as a light source is provided. The lighting device includes a solar power source, a rechargeable voltage source, a light reflector to reflect the light from the LEDs. The solar power source provide the necessary power to recharge the voltage source and the voltage source provide the power needed for the light source.